Opera Singer Sues Berle For 'Plenty'

Comedian's Stunt Angers Dorothy Kirsten

Hollywood, June 7 (P)—Opera singer Dorothy Kirsten says she will sue comedian Milton Berle for allegedly burlesquing her tresses and voice on his television show.

"It's going to cost Berle plenty," the prima donna emphasized yesterday.

Miss Kirsten described the asserted National Broadcasting Company burlesque as follows:

Berle and two assistants announce on the stage that Dorothy Kirsten will sing the drinking song from Verdi's "La Traviata."

A girl in a "hideous blond wig" then renders a vocal pantomime with a "screaming record" providing sound effects.

"People think it's my voice!" the opera star cried. "It's the most horrible thing you ever heard!"

Berle denied there was a girl "in a hideous blond wig" or a "screaming record." Actually, he said through his attorney, "the singing was that of a very capable and charming young singer, Miss Katherine Mastice."

"I am certain that Miss Kirsten, upon calmer consideration, will at the very least offer Miss Mastice her deepest apologies for her ill-tempered description of Miss Mastice's physical appearance."

Joe Louis Involved In Adultery Charge With Pastor's Wife

Chicago, June 7 (P)—Joe Louis, retired heavyweight champion, was accused of adultery with an attractive New York model today in a divorce suit brought by a minister.

The circuit court suit of the Rev. Mathew C. Faulkner, 33-year-old Baptist minister and former army chaplain, was a sequel to a $500,000 alienation of affections suit pending here against Louis.

Mr. Faulkner's divorce suit accuses his wife, Mattie, 27, of desertion and adultery. They have two children, Matthew, Jr., six, and Oran, four.

The clergyman alleged his wife committed adultery with Louis in December, 1947, and January, 1948. He charged she accepted gifts of furs, jewelry and money from Louis and deserted her husband Jan. 13, 1948.

Mr. Faulkner asked that he be given custody of the children, now in New York with their mother. The Faulkners were married in Thomaston, Ga., Sept. 28, 1941.

Minnesota Gunmen Captured In Kansas

Fairbury, Neb., June 7 (P)—Two of three Minnesota gunmen sought for killing a policeman, kidnapping and robbery, were captured by a party of farmers south of here in Kansas this morning. The third man gave himself up yesterday.

Sheriff Dwight Young of Fairbury reported the capture occurred after the gunmen wrecked their car.

Sheriff Young said he had been informed by Sheriff Bill Smith of Washington, Kas., that the two men and an unidentified hitchhiker with them had been taken to a Marysville, Kas., hospital. He said they have been identified as Carl Bistrom, 27, and Allen G. Hartman, 20.

The pair have been sought since Saturday in the killing of a Minneapolis suburban police officer and the kidnapping of a Mandan, N. D. police officer who sought to question them. Subsequently they kidnapped five other persons but released them too.

Young said he and Smith told him the gunmen wrecked their car when they ran into a bridge washout and the least seriously injured one went to a farmhouse for help.

Young reported the farmer recognized them and on the pretext of returning to his home for a chain, had his wife summon four neighbors. They came with shotguns and guarded the men until Sheriff Smith and his deputies arrived.

The 44-year-old American scholar and diplomat said here last night he believes the fighting is over in Palestine. Negotiations between Syria and Israel for an armistice covering the only unsolved battlefield are at a "crucial stage," he added, with hourly prospects of agreement.

A permanent settlement depends upon the wisdom and statesmanship of the Jews and Arabs now meeting in Lausanne, Switzerland, he said.

Dr. Bunche made his own role as United Nations mediator will end as soon as Syria and Israel sign.

Dr. Bunche made his remarks in an interview before speaking at the academy of music last night under sponsorship of the world affairs council.

Southern Coal Mine Owners Aim Tough Demands At Lewis

Operators Seek Ban On 'Memorial' Shutdowns

By HAROLD W. WARD
Bluefield, W. Va., June 7 (P)—Southern coal operators today demanded that John L. Lewis drop two of his biggest strike weapons in the next contract.

The mine owners asked that the United Mine Workers rip from the contract after June 30 the clauses which he has used in every strike since World War II.

They are the provisions that miners shall work only when "able and willing" and that mines may be shut down for memorials to miners killed in accidents.

The strike-curing proposals were among four major changes in the present agreement which the operators tossed on the bargaining table yesterday. Then they stood back for Lewis' reply.

The mine chief was in Washington, but he was expected to direct whatever response is made.

Strong Statement Read
The southern operators, headed by Joseph E. Moody, made the toughest demands on Lewis in recent years. And they were contained in a strongly worded statement read and discussed by the bargainers. The miners withheld immediate comment.

The decision of the Southern Coal Producers association to make public the long statement and proposals for a new agreement touched off a bitter fight in the negotiating session.

The miners, headed by secretary-treasurer John Owens, countered with a proposal that the whole bargaining conference be thrown open to the public, but the evenly-divided negotiating teams voted a deadlock.

The whole proceeding occurred against a background of persistent rumors that Lewis intends to call another "memorial" shutdown next week. He staged one for two weeks in March protesting the appointment of Dr. James Boyd as director of the bureau of mines.

Another walkout would eat into the high coal prices above ground which hurt Lewis.

Moody's group said "we cannot tell from day-to-day or hour to hour when we will be shut down" under the present contract.

They demanded that the $100,000-a-year welfare and pension fund be placed on "a sound actuarial basis" by tightening up eligibility for benefits—lest the government take over the fund and the coal industry too.

Catalina Boat Dumps Children Into Choppy Seas; All But 2 Saved

Survivors arrived early today at this yachting harbor to tell a horror-filled tale of an accident that swept the 16 off the decks of the fishing boat Otay yesterday as it was headed here from Catalina. Some 23 children 4 to 16 years old and their escorts were aboard the craft.

The Coast Guard gave this account: The 50-foot power cruiser started to list when its gas tanks drained unevenly. Ground swells in the choppy channel smacked the boat and loosened a live bait tank. The

Charter Plane Sinks In Atlantic; 47 Dead

Quick OK Pushed On Atlantic Pact

Washington, June 7 (P)—Senator Connally (D-Tex.) indicated today he may ask for early Senate debate on the Atlantic pact. It was approved unanimously yesterday by the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

Connally, chairman of the committee predicted that the Senate will ratify the historic 12-nation alliance "overwhelmingly." He said he may try to have the current debate on a new labor bill set aside long enough to permit action on the treaty.

The committee report recommending the pact was approved by a 13-0 vote after it had been changed to meet objections raised by Senator George (D-Ga.).

As written now, George told a reporter, the report makes "reasonably clear" that the treaty would not empower the President to get to war or "employ troops to enforce any particular action aimed at certain European countries without congressional approval."

Connally said the report aims to outline the treaty and "all its implications."

He added that the timing on the Senate debate depends on developments. The committee isn't ready to take up the pact this week, he said, but it may want to do so next week.

The treaty would bind each member nation to regard an attack on one signer as an attack on all and to take such action as each deems necessary, "including the use of armed force."

Connally said the committee's approval "will have a tremendously beneficial effect on the world situation."

But one of its chief critics, Senator Donnell (R-Mo.), said his opposition is unshaken despite the unanimous action of the committee.

Donnell and Senator Watkins (R-Utah) have contended the pact would permit the United States to become involved in war without congressional approval.

Bay City Piggery Garbage Disposal Branded Nuisance

Lansing, June 7 (P)—The state supreme court Monday upheld a trial court decision ordering the abandonment of the garbage disposal company piggery near Bay City.

In addition, the supreme court ordered the piggery closed or moved from its present location in Bangor and Kawakawlin townships by July 31.

In the interim the piggery management was instructed to use every available means to minimize an odor nuisance which led to the original abandonment order.

Suit was brought against the piggery owner, J. Claude Greene, by William Gillespie, Harry Gris-chke and Joseph Sampier. The piggery handled the garbage from 4,000 Bay City homes.

Youngest Ford Sits In On Wage Dicks

Contract Talks Will Be Resumed Wednesday

Detroit, June 7 (P)—With William Clay Ford among those present, the Ford Motor Co. and the CIO United Auto Workers re-sumed new contract talks tomorrow.

On the three-sessions-weekly program the negotiations were in recess today.

William Ford, 24, youngest of three grandsons of the late Henry Ford, company founder, sat in on yesterday's opening talks as a company representative.

A recent Yale graduate, William is a director of the company like his brother Henry Ford II, president, and Benson Ford.

The youngest Ford was one of 16 company negotiators. The union also had a 16-man team to present its proposals for $100-a-month pensions health and welfare funds, and a wage increase.

When William Ford got his Yale degree last January, he expressed an interest in industrial relations and said he might make it his field.

William has no title yet in actual Ford management. His brother Benson is vice president and general manager of the Lincoln-Mercury division.

Pentwater Bridge Closed To Traffic; No Funds To Fix It

Pentwater, Mich., June 7 (P)—The bridge across the channel connecting Pentwater lake and Lake Michigan was closed to traffic today.

Oceana county engineer Claude Stover said rotten wooden planking and cracked cement abutments on both approaches to the bridge had made it unsafe.

The bridge is owned by the city of Pentwater. Village President William Yenkan said, however, that no funds are available to repair the bridge. The cost has been estimated at $40,000.

Fifteen persons live the year around on the Lake Michigan side and customarily use the bridge. In summer hundreds of cottagers must either use the bridge or drive all the way around Pentwater lake, a route five miles longer.

Philippine Airlines Murder Plot Bared

Time Bomb Fatal To 13; Six Persons Accused

Manila, June 7 (P)—A woman and five men today were accused of murdering 13 persons by blowing up a Philippine Airlines plane with a time bomb on May 7.

The accused in the multiple murder complaint filed in Daet, Luzon, were named only as "John Roe." Authorities said their names will be revealed after their arrest.

Investigators said apparently they plotted the air tragedy which claimed two American lives, to enable the woman to receive her husband's inheritance and continue a clandestine love affair.

Two men are in custody. They are Amadeo Salazar and Gavino Largo. National Bureau of Investigation agents said they made statements that they were hired to deliver a mysterious box to the Daet airport. The agents think the box contained a time bomb which exploded after the plane got into the air.

There are two other suspected accomplices in the delivery of the box. They are a high school student and a taxicab driver. Warrants have been issued for their arrest.

President Truman Picks Gordon Gray As Army Secretary

Washington, June 7 (P)—President Truman today picked Gordon Gray to be secretary of the Army. Gray's nomination was sent to the Senate shortly after the White House announced that Mr. Truman had decided to choose him for the post.

Gray, the under secretary, has been acting as head of the Army department since the resignation of Kenneth C. Royall last month.

Today's announcement indicated that Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson had failed to persuade Curtis E. Calder, New York utility executive, to take the job.

Gray was publisher of the Winston-Salem Journal and Twin City Sentinel in North Carolina. He also served two terms in the North Carolina Senate.

Georgia's Top Red Jailed For Threats Against Youth, 20

Atlanta, June 7 (P)—Georgia's No. 1 Communist sat in jail today and pondered whether to try to raise $5,000 bond or just sit there until next month.

Homor B. Chase, chairman of Georgia's Communist party, was found guilty yesterday of threatening a 20-year-old Cartersville youth. He was put under a $5,000 bond, and went to jail with this remark:

"Five thousand dollars is a lot of money for a working man. Besides, a few days rest might do me good."

Unless Chase raises the money, he will remain in jail until his case comes up at the July term of superior court. There is no appeal from a peace bond.

Evans Wilder former grocery clerk, petitioned for the peace warrant against Chase. He said Chase and other party members had threatened him and he feared bodily injury.

Survivors Cling To Reefs; 28 Reported Rescued

GREEK WRECK KILLS 22
Athens, June 7 (P)—Twenty-two persons, including a Greek army general, perished last night in a plane crash 17 miles north of Athens.

Nineteen of the passengers were small children or infants, and 19 were women. One American crewman, Al Cockrell of Pittsfield, Mass., is reported missing and feared dead.

Couldn't Gain Altitude
The plane left San Juan a few minutes after midnight and two minutes later radioed back requesting permission to make an emergency landing. Then nothing more was heard from it. Officials said apparently it had trouble gaining altitude because of an adverse wind.

Rescuers pulled survivors from the sea and took them off reefs and rocks. The Coast Guard continued searching for the missing persons at the scene of the crash off San Juan bay.

The Navy announced that the Coast Guard had located the plane 400 feet under water near a small island 400 yards west of Point Salinas. Salvage work was expected to start at once. Officials said an investigation would be

Washington, June 7 (P)—Democratic House leaders called a mass meeting of party members today (3 p. m. EST) in a drive to pile up votes behind President Truman's big and hotly-contested Housing bill.

Martin, opposing the bill called for a halt to "new spending programs at this time."

Critics have estimated the cost of the Housing bill at from $16,000,000 to $19,000,000 over a 40-year period.

The measure was approved by the Senate April 21 on a 57 to 13 vote. It calls for a vast program of slum clearance, low cost public housing and farm housing aids.

MAN BURNED IN FLASH FIRE

Gasoline Explodes At 211 Ludington

Gordon Benton, 24, was burned about the arms, face and neck in a gasoline explosion at his home, 211 Ludington street, Monday evening at 6:35 o'clock. He was taken to St. Francis hospital for treatment.

The circumstances that resulted in the explosion are vague, but Benton apparently was carrying a jar of gasoline in his hand when he stumbled and fell against the kitchen stove.

The explosion enveloped the house in flames. Benton ran to a nearby gasoline filling station for assistance and was taken to St. Francis hospital by Henry Chenier.

The fire was brought under control promptly by the fire department, but the intense heat of the flash fire scorched all of the walls of the house and burned all of the curtains.

Benton suffered second degree burns on the arms and less severe burns on the head and neck.

Aircraft With 75 Aboard Sinks; 45 Persons Dead

started immediately.

Survivors told of seeing fellow passengers huddled together in the cabin of the plane, afraid to jump into the dark sea. Some of those rescued said the plane appeared to have developed engine trouble.

Only four women were among the 28 known survivors. One of those saved was Judith Hale of Binghamton, N. Y., stewardess. A 14-year-old boy also was rescued.

Passengers jumped.

Survivors said the passengers seemed nervous from the start because of the large number aboard. However officials said the plane was not overcrowded. They said that type has a general weight limit of 45,000 pounds and the official manifest showed 44,500 pounds.

The Coast Guard announcement said 28 of those aboard had been rescued by 6 a. m. EST — almost six hours after the crash. The bodies of two adults and a child were recovered.

The airline's agent in San Juan said those aboard included 53 adults, 10 children between two and 11 years of age, five children under two and five crew members.

The agent said all the passengers were Puerto Ricans. The two-engine plane, a C-46, crashed into the sea 10 minutes after it left San Juan airport. Survivors said it appeared to have developed engine trouble.

Two of those rescued were women, including Judith Hale of Binghamton, N. Y., stewardess. A 14-year-old boy also was saved. Those plucked from the sea and found on small islands and reefs were taken to hospitals for physical checkups.

The plane en route to Newark, N. J., via Miami, was operated by Strato Freight, Inc., a charter service with headquarters at Bradley field, near Windsor Locks, Conn.

The C-46, a Curtiss Wright commando, was designed for the air force as a cargo craft and was used extensively in the China-Burma-India theater during the war. The maximum capacity was 50 troops or 10,000 pounds of cargo.

Although there were 74 persons aboard the craft, 15 of them were children and this may have made the total weight within the 10,000 pounds cargo capacity.

TOLL RANKS HIGH

New York, June 7 (AP)—The possible loss of 45 persons in the crash of a charter plane near San Juan, Puerto Rico, today was eight less than the death toll of the worst commercial plane disaster in this country.

On May 30, 1947, 53 persons were killed in the crash of an Eastern Airlines plane near Port Deposit, Md.

The heaviest death toll ever recorded in a plane crash occurred on Aug. 23, 1944, when 54 persons were killed, 35 of them children, as a U. S. plane crashed in England.

CRASH KILLS 26

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, June 7 (AP)—Reports from Florianopolis said 26 persons were killed yesterday when a Brazilian army transport plane crashed into a mountain soon after taking off.

The air ministry here said wreckage of the plane, a C-47, was located near Cambirelas Peak and rescue parties were rushed to the scene.

Potter's Bill For Sirkka Passes In House Today

Sirkka is one step nearer her United States citizenship! The blue-eyed girl who came from Finland to the United States two years ago to continue her laboratory technician studies and who became a member of the staff of St. Francis hospital was today "lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence" by the House of Representatives.

The bill HR 1127, introduced in behalf of Miss Saarelainen by Congressman Charles E. Potter, now goes to the Senate for confirmation, and will pave the way for Sirkka's naturalization and her citizenship.

It sounds very simple in a statement of a few words but it was far from that. Sirkka's story would have been much different if it were not for the kindly interest of Congressman Charles H. Potter.

Bill Introduced

Sirkka, as almost everyone in the community knows, came to this country first to study and also to work, for it was necessary that she earn the money to keep her. According to immigration regulations she violated her student visa when she took employment. She was facing deportation when her plight was brought to the attention of Congressman Potter.

He immediately, on January 21, 1948, to be exact, introduced a bill in her behalf in the House of Representatives of the 80th Congress and it was referred to the committee on the judiciary. Before action was taken on it, a presidential election was held. One of Mr. Potter's first acts after his re-election was to re-introduce the bill for consideration by the 81st Congress.

He and Mrs. Potter had met Sirkka on their trips through the Upper Peninsula and they had agreed as had everyone else who knew her that she was the type of citizen the United States might feel well proud to adopt and that her place was in the hospital where her services were so vitally needed.

Reported Out Favorably

A hearing on the bill was held May 23 before the sub-committee on immigration of the house judiciary committee, of which Representative Francis E. Walter of the Pennsylvania 20th district is chairman and was reported out favorably. Today it passed the House.

To say that there is rejoicing in this Upper Peninsula community over the action of the House is an understatement.

The townspeople are happy for the little Finnish girl. The good Sisters of St. Francis who have been offering their prayers daily for her are overjoyed. And Sirkka's circle of friends, business and professional men and women, members of her adopted parish, Bethany Lutheran, and her pastor, Rev. Gustav Lund, down to the members of her little knitting club are happy to know that the way is being paved by the Congress of the United States for permanent residence here.

Felch Mountain Report Is Issued

A report on recent studies of a part of the Felch Mountain iron range in Michigan has been released. The report covers an area east and south of Randville in Iron and Dickinson counties, Mich., and represents the continuation of work in this region by the U. S. Geological Survey in cooperation with the Geological Survey Division of the Michigan Department of Conservation.

Earlier reports were placed in open file in 1945 and 1946. For the present report, mapping and dip-needle observations were continued eastward for three miles, and included the area around the abandoned Groveland mine. The text includes discussion of exposures and magnetic anomalies, as well as of structure and possible ore distribution. The geologic map and a magnetic map on a scale of 1 inch to 1,000 feet accompany the report.

The report, entitled "Geology of a part of the Felch Mountain iron range, Michigan," by Carl A. Lamery, has been placed in open file in order to make the most recent information on the area available to those interested. It may be inspected at the following offices of the U. S. Geological Survey: Room 1033 (Library), Federal Works Agency Bldg., Washington, D. C.; Room 6, Iron River National Bank Bldg., Iron River, Mich.; and Science Hall, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis., and at the office of the state geologist, Michigan Geological Survey Division, Lansing, Mich.

Settle Rail Strike, U.S. Tells Russia

Trade Can't Be Resumed Until Tieup Ends

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

Berlin, June 7 (AP)—The United States has warned Russia that East-West trade in Germany cannot be resumed until the Berlin rail strike is settled.

Lawrence Wilkinson, chief economic adviser to the U. S. military government also charged the Soviets with violating the agreement to lift the blockade of the former German capital.

Some 40 freight trains bound from western Germany to Berlin are stranded on Soviet zone tracks by the strike of anti-Communist western Berlin rail workers.

Wilkinson yesterday asked the Russians to reroute the trains into Soviet sector yards for unloading and said failure to try to bring the trains in constituted a violation of the agreement reached in New York last month.

Non-striking members of the Communist railroad union are employed in the Soviet sector.

The strike of 14,000 west Berlin railroad men began almost three weeks ago and no settlement is in sight. The men wanted payment of all wages in west marks rather than the less valuable Soviet-backed east marks. They also demanded recognition of their independent union (UGO) and reinstatement of men allegedly fired for political reasons.

Witness Chambers Admits He Lied In Hiss Perjury Quiz

New York, June 7 (AP)—Whittaker Chambers admitted today that he lied seven times before the federal grand jury which indicted Alger Hiss on two perjury counts.

Chambers, one-time courier for a pre-war Soviet spy ring and star government witness in the trial of the former high state department official made the admission on his fourth day on the witness stand.

A few minutes previously Federal Judge Samuel H. Kaufman said he found his trial testimony inconsistent with his grand jury testimony. He granted Hiss' attorney, Lloyd Paul Stryker, permission to read the grand jury minutes.

Stryker, cross-examining Chambers, read seven portions of grand jury dialogues. Each time he asked Chambers if the testimony he gave was true or false. Each time Chambers replied that it was false.

No Area At Park Safe For Bathing

THE tragedy that occurred Sunday at the new beach site in Ludington park serves as a grim reminder to all persons that public bathing should be confined to those areas designated as safe for such use and then only when public bathing areas are under supervision of competent lifeguards.

No place along the Ludington park shoreline will be safe for public bathing at any time this year. The new beach at the park will not be ready for use at least until the summer of 1950 and not then if any holes gouged out by the sand-sucker still remain. Before the new beach is opened to the public every foot of the area to be utilized for bathing purposes will be carefully inspected. Safe areas will be well marked and bathing in any other areas will be prohibited.

A considerable amount of sand filling at the new beach is still required. The sand-sucker will be in operation in that area through most of the summer. It is imperative that bathers stay away from those waters and confine their bathing to the temporary municipal beach on the north shore of Saind Point when lifeguards are on hand.

Parents must emphasize to their children the dangers of swimming on Ludington Park this summer, if repetitions of Sunday's tragedy are to be avoided. City employees on duty at the park and policemen must help in enforcing the "no swimming" rule.

No Repeat Yet On Margarine Taxes

ON April 1 the U. S. house of representatives passed by the decisive margin of 287 to 98 a bill to repeal federal taxes on oleomargarine. The measure was forwarded to the senate, where it has laid without action since.

Inasmuch as considerable legislation still remains to be disposed of in the present session of congress, there is growing apprehension that the margarine tax repeal bill may suffer the same fate in the senate as it did a year ago. The house adopted a similar bill then. A senate committee reported the bill favorably to the floor, but it lingered on the calendar and finally died by legislative suffocation.

It was indicated then that a majority of the senate favored the margarine tax repeal bill, but a threat of filibuster against the bill in the last minute rush for adjournment prevented senatorial action. There is every reason to suspect that the present bill is headed for the same fate, unless housewives who have led the fight against margarine discrimination plead with their senators to seek passage of the bill at this session.

Dairy interests have used many devices to retain legislative restrictions against margarine. It appeared that this year the dairy bloc was on the run and that consumers would win out. Now the outlook is not quite so optimistic. The dairy group still has a couple of trumps left to play and it appears that this potent minority will once again win the legislative battle on the margarine issue.

Czech Catholics Fight State Rule

COMMUNISM'S continuing attack on religion is evidenced again in the maneuvers of the Red-controlled Czech government to sever the ties of Catholic churches in Czechoslovakia from the Vatican. The Communists are seeking to establish so-called Catholic churches in Czechoslovakia that could be controlled by the Red government.

These efforts are being bitterly opposed by Archbishop Josef Beran. In view of the position taken by the Catholic prelate, it may be anticipated that the Communist rulers of Czechoslovakia will begin the same program of "elimination" directed towards Archbishop Beran as they did against Cardinal Mindszenty in Hungary.

As a means of cutting financial support of the Catholic and other churches in Czechoslovakia, the Communist government has banned collections in the churches. The obvious purpose is to crush the church groups that constitute a source of opposition to Communist rule.

Communists continue to plead that they are not antagonistic to religious freedom but it is all too significant that wherever Communism gains control, religious persecution follows.

Tourist Boom Ends

THE Michigan Tourist Council reports that the year 1948 marked the end of the era of easy dollars and free spending.

"The lush days of the immediate postwar period are over," says Robert J. Furlong, council secretary. "We are going back to normal."

However, authorities look for a fairly good year, perhaps not as good as the 1948 season, but one of normal volume and profits. The ferries at the Straits are showing traffic increases in advance of the tourist season, but this is to be expected with the steady growth of the Upper Peninsula.

The Babson reports, usually reliable in their predictions, do not anticipate a decline of much more than five per cent in American business volume this year. That could easily be transformed to an increase in this territory, which becomes better known year by year, and where increased facilities for visitors are reaching a new peak in 1949.

It is to be expected that the tourist will 'shop' this season as he has not done for some years. There is no denying that surplus dollars are not as plentiful as they were. For example, several thousand new homes in Detroit remain unsold and unoccupied, not because they aren't badly needed, but because the average prospective buyer simply hasn't the money to make the first payment, let alone paying cash for a home.

The car making companies are making rosy predictions of excellent business for the balance of the year. But should automobile strikes come and be long continued, northern and upper Michigan will lose a good many vacation dollars, without doubt.

It all comes down to the hard fact that war booms never last forever. In the end they have to be paid for by a corresponding time of business lassitude and 'catching up.' Fortunate is the family that has a few shots in the locker, a few dollars saved up for a rainy day. They may come in handy soon.

HIGH TIDE OF JUNE

Hills lie green in the sun and meadows are starred with daisies. High tide of year approaches and earth pulses with life's strong throbbings. Lawns are spangled with dew at sunrise and fog blossoms float on the lowlands. As sun pulls above the horizon, the symphony swells to stirring intensity before birds start the day's labors. Long, straight lines of corn plants make a pattern on brown fields and green marbles of apples foretell autumn's harvest.

If a man were to choose one period of year to be prolonged, he could wisely choose the Egg Moon month. This is time of long days and lingering sunsets. Cloud masses roam the overhead trails and the blue of June sky is reflected in quiet ponds and creek pools. Barn swallows swoop and swirl, climb and dive over the fields and hawks circle slowly on motionless wings. Phobos sit on the telephone wires above the farmyard and flip their tails as they give their names; song sparrows throw arias from fence posts and shed roofs throughout the day.

The time of Summer Solstice approaches and brings the once a year pageant of Long Day Beauty. On the longest day of year probably more flowers are open than on any other. Gold and black bumblebees, banded honey bees, butterflies and myriad insects hurry from flower to flower. The life-giving pollen from stamens anthers is transferred to the pistils' sticky stigmas and the miracle of life is reenacted when the pollen grain makes its way down the style to the ovary in the flower's base. Man takes nature's wonders for granted; he lives in the midst of glory and sees it not. One would not disparage the marvels of science; the test tubes and crucibles lift burdens from man's back and give him greater control over this experience we call life. But when the high tide of year comes upon us, we can rise for a time beyond the formulas and equations. For this is when faith is proved stronger than knowledge and a man's heart accepts the verities. At dawn and at sunset, at high noon and in the dusk when mountain peaks flame in the afterglow, one can feel the rush of the tide. June is a month of magic and a month of beauty. Earth response to the power of Him who holds the stars in their courses and sends the seasons in never-failing rhythm.—By Haydn Pearson.

NOT INTERESTED IN VETS' HOUSING (Manitowoc Herald-Times)

It is not hard to see how unimpressed the current legislature is with Wisconsin war veterans' need for housing.

The one big problem stumping legislators now, is how best to distribute about $3,000,000 so that it will win political friends among the greatest number of people.

The fun is obviously a prize plumb to be harvested with care. If veterans are still living with relatives or doubling and tripling up with other families or existing in plywood cubbyholes, well, that's too bad, but things are leveling off now. Maybe there will be more dwellings available in a little while.

"THE POTTERS FIELD"

A syndicated columnist recently devoted a long article to speculation as to the origin of the expression "Potters' Field." His theory is that since in the Bible, and in ancient literature, God is called The Potter, "Potters' Field" means "God's Acre where the broken, useless, and discarded clay of life can find rest."

Tradition since the fourth century places the location of the plot of ground known as the "Potters' Field" on the Hill of Evil Counsel—"a little level plot overhanging the valley of Hinnom. The potters probably had here a cave in which their work was carried on."

The columnist's "God's Acre" theory may be disproved by referring to the Bible. In Acts I it is related that Judas purchased a field with the reward of his iniquity (the thirty pieces of silver). The field was known to the dwellers of Jerusalem as Aeldama, "the field of blood." In the 27th chapter of Matthew, which tells of the trial of Jesus Christ, Judas repented and returned the pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders, saying, "I have sinned in that I have betrayed the innocent blood. And he cast down the pieces of silver in the temple and departed and went and hanged himself. And the chief priest took the pieces of silver and said, it is not law-

Acheson Loses Trump Cards

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington.—For Secretary of State Dean Acheson, tied up in a diplomatic poker game with the Russians at the Paris conference, the news from home must be somewhat disturbing. He must feel as though a long arm from Washington had reached over his shoulder to take out of his hand some of his strongest cards.

The senate has put off consideration of the Atlantic pact until after action on a labor bill, which is certain to provoke a great deal of debate and parliamentary skirmish. More serious, Majority Leader Scott Lucas suggested in an interview that it might not be possible in the present session to consider the proposal to send American arms to the Atlantic pact countries.

While President Truman said the contrary—that congress would find time to consider the arms proposal—the damage had been done. The strength from which Secretary Acheson was leading was weakened.

FIRST THINGS LAST

Watching the congress, you sometimes get the feeling that even the best-intentioned men are trying to evade the difficult decisions of our difficult age. There seems to be, at times, a dogged determination to put first things last.

But the senate the other day took a step toward unloading some of the cumbersome excess baggage out of the past. With very little debate by a voice vote a bill was adopted giving a considerable measure of home rule to the District of Columbia.

The connection between home rule for the district and the Paris poker game may not at first be apparent. It is nevertheless a very real connection. Both in the senate and house, in committee and on the floor, a fantastic amount of time is taken up with the small details of governing a city of less than a million population.

For example, the senate took four days to consider whether or not the District of Columbia should have a sales tax. That seems almost incredible when that chamber is so bogged down that Majority Leader Lucas indicates civil rights, health insurance and other vital parts of the Truman Fair Deal will not be considered at this session.

A senate subcommittee has been plagued with the problem of the district dog pound. Fanatical anti-vivisectionists are pushing a bill that would deprive medical schools in Washington of animals essential for research. So for several days Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine holds hearings on whether the pound is clean and whether the dogs are happy there or whether they should be sacrificed to science.

Chairman of the senate district committee, and in effect mayor of Washington, is Sen. J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island. But McGrath has so many different jobs that he can give comparatively little time to this assignment.

KEFAUVER CARRIES BALL

Most of the burden of pushing through the home-rule bill has been carried by Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. Ably and skillfully, Kefauver has kept the issue down to the essential beginning of giving the citizens of Washington the right, within limits, to self-government.

Contrary to advance rumor, the southerners in the senate wisely decided against any effort to filibuster the home-rule measure to death. Their apprehension is over the question of segregation in the nation's capital and the reports had it that they meant to put a segregation provision in the bill.

That would have made a mockery of home rule, for obviously one of the motives is to give Washingtonians a chance to decide for themselves how they will manage their own affairs. Essentially, Washington is a conservative city with a strong southern flavor, and Washington voters would not be likely at least in the immediate future to upset present patterns.

From the point of view of the nation, the question is not whether Washington is to get the right of the vote and therefore, perhaps, a fairer and more equitable government. As important as this may seem to those who live here, the issue for every American is in clearing away some of the road blocks that hold congress back.

If the home-rule bill could be got out of a subcommittee dominated by men who oppose the idea, it would quickly go through the house. This would be one constructive step from a lagging congress that would help other congresses in the future to keep up with urgent national business. It is a small but important step toward putting first things first.

ful to put them in the treasury, because it is the price of blood. And they took counsel and bought with them the potters' field to bury strangers in. Wherefore that field was called the field of blood unto this day."

It seems obvious, then, that the term Potters' Field may be taken literally as designating simply a field near which potters had a cave, or a field which produced a clay especially suitable for pottery, but unfit for agriculture, and therefore used as a burial place for papers, unknown persons, and criminals. This is the meaning that "Potters' Field" has had in English since AD 1600.

I explained recently that the little vertical groove on the upper lip, just below the septum of the nose, is called the philtrum, from the Greek philtron, "a philter; a love potion." What the connection is I was unable to say.

Reader D. P. writes: "A Greek historian, whose name escapes me, states that the beautiful women of ancient Greece concocted a mixture of olive oil and an exotic perfume. They placed drops of the mixture in the groove of their upper lips, making themselves irresistible. Hence the name Philtrum—a love potion."

A Lot of Help He Turned Out to Be!

Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

FISHING—Limit catches of walleyes from bay waters is becoming more common as the season advances. Fishermen who bring back ten walleyes have a problem on their hands. Shall they load up the family refrigerator with a lot of fish, or shall they give them away?

Dunathan

One man we know, who had better than usual luck for a few days, has now stopped fishing until the demand equals the supply. Thinking his friends would enjoy the gift of a few walleyes, he would care for some nice fresh fish. After a few attempts to give fish away he has decided to take no more than he needs for his family. Because his non-fishing friends, who recognize a fish only on a platter, do not want to scale or clean them.

"Are they cleaned?" is the first question when he asks if they would like a couple walleyes. And one man, in response, to his offer, replied reluctantly, "Well, you might drop off one—if it's cleaned. My wife always gets fillets for us."

ENJOYMENT—About this time last year there were disturbing reports that many fine walleyes were being thrown into garbage cans in Escanaba alleys. Fishermen were taking so many they could not use all of them and they could not give them away. Another cause for the waste of the fine food fish was the late hour at which many fishermen return to town with their catch.

They would not get them cleaned the night they were brought home. Next morning the fishermen would be off to work. Unless his wife dressed the fish and placed them in refrigeration they were more than likely to be spoiled by the evening of the second day after they were caught.

AND WASTE—Reports of such goings on brought indignant letters from true sportsmen, who never take more fish than they or their friends can use. And the good fisherman always sees to it that his catch is cleaned and refrigerated as soon as possible, to make certain there is no waste.

Most fishermen agree that a man should not go fishing unless he can clean a fish. For the inability to scale and clean a fish ready for the pan results in more wasted fish than any other cause.

Good cooks usually welcome fresh-caught fish, but they do not like to clean as well as cook them. The wise husband who likes to fish will find his wife encouraging him in his sport if he presents the day's catch scaled and cleaned and ready for the pan. The task of preparing the fish for the cook should follow the angler's fun of catching them. It is a job that cannot be shirked and should not be too long delayed, or some of the fine flavor of the fish will be lost.

UNSOLICITED—Another friend of ours, who owns a cottage along the shore of Little Bay de Noc, is indignant over the bad manners of some of the hundreds of walleye fishermen who are just off-shore in boats.

These fishermen, he reports, think the bay is a dumping ground for all kinds of refuse. Earlier this spring the cottage

Munising—Herman Ottenhoff has left to attend the World's Fair in New York City. Enroute he will visit friends in Port Huron, Buffalo and Detroit.

Manistique—Ronald Frenette, four-year-old son of the Bud Frenettes of Gulliver, was found yesterday noon after an intensive search by 250 persons. He had been lost in the woods since about two o'clock June 5. The young boy was found, badly bitten by mosquitoes, about four and a half miles from home.

Escanaba—Jane Glavin was elected president of the Escanaba Mortarboard Society yesterday. Other officers named for the year are Hazel Gauffin, vice president; Neva Mead, treasurer; Helen MacHedin, secretary; and Miss Roma Irons, faculty advisor. Miss Eula Mack has been advisor for the past four years but has resigned from the school system.

Escanaba—Harry D. Brackett was elected grand sword bearer at the 73rd convocation of the Knights Templar in Benton Harbor yesterday.

Manistique—Miss Mabel Morrison of the staff of Shaw hospital is spending a week with her parents in Isabella. Her sister Anna is assuming her duties while she is away.

cleaned up his beach, removing the winter's accumulation of debris. Since the walleye fishing season started this cottage has picked up scrap paper, bottles and cans (mostly those once containing beer), and diverse other exhibits of careless disposal of trash that floated ashore.

ALL FOULED UP—Such practices are rapidly making dumping grounds of some of the cleanest and best fishing waters to be found in the Upper Peninsula.

There is one small harbor we know that has become so fouled with refuse that when you look down through the water you are regaled by the sight of empty cans, old tires, pieces of wire, chunks of car bodies, the shells of hardboiled eggs, and a variety of other refuse. On the surface of the water floats orange skins and discarded paper. Around the shores are more loadings, together with some smelly carcasses of rotting fish. It is no longer a pleasant place—and man has made it so.

CODE OF CONDUCT—Many fishermen are concerned over these matters, perhaps too late. The number of visiting fishermen is increasing. Walleye fishing has become big business. The problem will become worse unless something is done.

The conscientious fishermen might very well get together and draw up a code of conduct. An educational campaign would help.

Leading the code would be the statement that no fisherman will take more fish than he can use—no matter what the legal limit. He will be neat in his fishing habits and leave the fishing waters as clean as he found them. He will follow these recommendations because he realizes that waste and untidiness will seriously affect his future fishing enjoyment.

Convention City

Dear Editor:

I read that Escanaba has made a bid for the 1952 convention of the United Commercial Travelers. It would be fine if other local delegates to conventions would invite their organizations to come to Escanaba. The Parent-Teacher convention brought a good deal of money into town, and we should try to land all the conventions we can. Conventions that come before or after the busy vacation season are particularly helpful in keeping local business on an even keel.

About Deer

Dear Editor:

In reading an article about deer on Arbutus avenue (in Manistique) recently, we, the Dissingers, beg to differ with you in this being the first time in years.

A year ago while we were living at 345 Lake Street, the children called us to see the deer in our back yard. We went over to see a large buck running around to avoid the dogs chasing him. He ran smack into DeMar's chicken yard fence then ran over the Babladel yard and out on Arbutus avenue. We lost sight of the deer then.

We have them often in our back yard now at Manistique Heights.

Respectfully,
Mrs. Don Dissinger.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.—President Truman would attend his family church, the First Baptist, often, except for the fuss and fanfare that occurs when he shows up for Sunday services.

Truman has strong ideas that people should go to church to worship, not to see who's in the congregation—even if the president of the United States is on hand.

"I don't like being a circus attraction in a place of worship," he has remarked on several occasions.

His pastor, Reverend Edward H. Pruden, agrees with the president, but is always polite to people who phone him on Sunday mornings wanting to know if Truman will be there.

Reverend Pruden couldn't resist a little good-natured chiding, however, when a lady phoned him just before services on a recent Sabbath.

"No, the president doesn't like to attend services today," he advised the curious caller, "but God will be here."

SOCIAL DIPLOMACY

The full inside story has not yet been written of how Andrei Gromyko, first deputy foreign minister of the U. S. S. R., laid the groundwork for the Paris big four conference.

It is a story which involves such names as Nelson Rockefeller, Warren Austin, and especially Mrs. Austin and Mrs. Gromyko.

During the past year, Gromyko has quietly broken down the social wall which normally keeps Soviet diplomats from contact with the world they live in. He has accepted frequent dinner invitations from U. N. delegate Warren Austin, at which young Rockefeller and other broad-minded businessmen were present.

Actually, there was not much hush-hush discussion at these dinners. One informant describes them as being "painfully social." But they broke the ice between key individuals of east and west—thanks in part to the cordial feeling that grew up between Mrs. Austin and Mrs. Gromyko.

The Austin dinners were reciprocated by the Gromykos, at their 680 Park avenue residence.

These social icebreakers began even before Gromyko went back to Russia last year, and those who knew his movements in that period say he went not only to Moscow but to Coochi in the Crimea, where he was a personal guest of Premier Stalin.

Stalin, apparently impressed with Gromyko's report, asked him to make a report direct to the Politburo. This Gromyko did, stating that there was a genuine desire for an east-west understanding in the U. S., and no desire for war.

This is the dinner-table background—in which the ladies played no small part—which helped soften the Soviet foreign office and opened the way for lifting the Berlin blockade.

BIG SHIPPING LOBBY

While congress is supposed to be cracking down on lobbyists, the paid representatives of the big shipowners are violating an early lobbying act that became the forerunner of the present lobbying law.

This first congressional attempt to put the finger on lobbyists has been on the books since the merchant marine scandal of 1936, and requires lobbyists to register with the maritime commission before trying to influence shipping legislation on Capitol Hill.

Though this statute has never been repealed, big shipping lobbyists pay no attention to it. Even now a flock of lobbyists are clamoring before congress for new shipping subsidies and, out of the entire lot, only one has bothered to register with the maritime commission.

Other shipping representatives, who have appeared before congress but haven't bothered to register under the 1936 law, are: L. R. Sanford, also a former maritime commission employee but now executive vice president, Shipbuilders Council of America; Frazer Bailey, president, National Federation of American Shipping; George Morton, president, Association of American Ship Owners; Wilbur E. Dow, Jr., president, American Tramp Shipowners Institute; and Chester Thompson, president, American Waterways Operators, Inc. As an example of the handouts they seek from Uncle Sam, they are asking congress for a dual standard of depreciation on their ships. For the purpose of paying taxes, they want the government to grant an accelerated, 15 per cent depreciation, which would completely depreciate their vessels in less than seven years.

On the other hand, the shipping companies demand that the government figure a 20-year depreciation in paying for private ships it takes over in case of war.

That's the kind of lobbying the shipping companies' unregistered lobbyists are doing on Capitol Hill.

Note—To find out whether the lobbyists were registered, this column called Maritime Commissioner Joe Carson. He squirmed at the questions, demanded to know who had tipped off Pearson. At one point, he blurted: "I suppose you are recording my conversation."

Assured that he was not talking into a dictaphone, he still held back. Though the information is a matter of public record, Carson finally refused to answer any more questions.

OHIO BARBER IS DOING WELL

Haircut Only 15 Cents,
Shave One Dime

By ROBERT C. RUARK

Lowell, Ohio—Mister Billy Ray says he'll just be damned if he knows why everybody isn't as rich as he is. Mister Billy says he don't hold with this here inflation foolishness. It isn't necessary.

The way to be happy is just to save two dollars every day for 59 years like Mister Billy did. You don't have to be greedy, either. Mister Billy says he never made more than $125 a month in all his life. But he was always systematic.

At 79, Mister Billy still works 14 hours a day in his barbershop. He says he cuts maybe 25, 30, 35 heads of hair every day. He charges 15 cents for a haircut, same as he's been doing, for 59 years. Charges 10 cents for a shave, likewise.

"Both prices are too damn high," Mister Billy says. "I could cut my prices and still show a mighty good profit."

Mister Billy is a thin little man with a dyed, droopy black moustache, sandy hair, a standup 1890 collar, asthma and an aversion to cigarette smoke. You can take a chaw of mail pouch in Mister Billy's barbershop, but a dozen signs warn you of the coffin nail.

Has $20,000 In Cash

Mister Billy owns his shop clean and clear, like he owns his house, his two building lots, some mortgages, his farms, and his bank account. Mister Billy is a rich man. "I can set down and write my check for $8,000 right now," he says. "That's just on my checking account. I started out 59 years ago with 30 cents cash money. Now I got $20,000 cash money and all that real estate. When I go home Saturday with my pockets full of money I just don't know where to spend it all. Got no overhead. Got no children. Only thing worries me is who I'll leave it to."

Mister Billy's shop is modern, since the flood of 1913 swept away his belongings, and he had to replace everything. His shop is full of stuffed owls, hanging birds nests, no-smoking signs, flyspecked calendars, township ordinances, Gibson girl statuettes, A. Zeno one-chewing gum vender which doesn't work and old-fangled gaslights.

Mister Billy frowns on gadgets. He has never had a refrigerator in his home, for instance. He still shaves his customers out of an old time mug. He gets his water from a gas-heated oaken-marble washstand. When he cuts hair, he doesn't waste time.

"One of the troubles with Billy," a crony said, "is he gives you the hair back. He don't keep the hair out of your collar. You can see his customers walk off, a digging and itching clean out of sight." Mister Billy only sweeps up once a day. Most of the hair that lies in drifts on his marble floor is gray.

Other Barbers Kick
Mister Billy says he is always getting complaints from other barbers who resent his inflexibly low prices. Mister Billy, he just scoffs at his critics.

"They give me the bad mouth," he says. "Huh, I can buy and sell every barber in the country. They mess with me I will hit them on the head and throw them in the river."

Although Mister Billy is a deeply religious man who always gives two dollars a week to the church, and 50 cents to the Sunday school, he was most tolerant in choosing his assistants. Last help was a Mr. Posey Hupp, a man who favored strong drink. Mr. Hupp has now retired but he was a caution while he lasted.

Posey would drink anything. Once he drank a bottle of beer and ate a whole box of aspirin to accompany it. He would drink hair-cream if he had to, and Mister Billy's operating expenses have shrunk since Posey retired.

Posey was in jail nearly every week but was always bailable on

Chester Wilson
Exchange Vows

St. Peter's church at Fayette, bouquets of white peonies arranged with potted palms on its altars and at the sanctuary entrance, was the setting Saturday, June 4, for the wedding of Teresa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Collins of Fayette, and Chester Darold Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Wilson of Downs, Ill. The vows were spoken before Rev. Patrick Frankard at a 9 o'clock nuptial high mass.

Miss Mary Faye LaValle was organist for the service.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore traditional white satin, her gown styled with a fitted bodice, scoop neckline, long tapering sleeves, and a full skirt which formed a court train. Her blusher veil of bridal illusion was gathered to a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book attached to the cover of which were white carnations with white satin shower ribbons, knotted with lilies of the valley.

Her attendants, her sisters, Rita, the maid of honor, and Eleanor and Bonnie Jean, bridesmaids, wore identical gowns of Nile green with scoop necklines and cap sleeves. Open crown bonnets and white gloves completed their costumes and they carried colonial bouquets, the maid of honor's of pink and the bridesmaids, of yellow snapdragons and carnations.

Gilbert P. Van Gessel of Grand Rapids was Mr. Wilson's best man, and ushers were Donald H. Corbett and James R. Collins.

Mrs. Collins attended her daughter's wedding in a silk print with black accessories and Mrs. Wilson wore a grey suit with black accessories. The mothers' flowers were pink carnations.

Spring flowers were used in the decorations for the wedding breakfast and afternoon reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Collins at their home.

SENIORS HEAR
REV. P. SOBELCapacity Crowd Attends
Baccalaureate Services

Faith in God and consideration for others were emphasized by the Rev. Paul Sobel, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, at Baccalaureate services at the high school auditorium Sunday night.

Using the topic, "Let's Go Scouting," the speaker drew on his experience as a Boy Scout executive in presenting courses which should or should not be followed.

The first of three examples he cited was a Scout who had the gift of good looks, fine personality and mental faculties which should have helped him to go far in this world, but he disregarded his duties to his God and thought only of self. He failed.

The second example was a Boy Scout who not as gifted and who did not have the personality of the other lad was thoughtful, considerate and who followed the religious training given him. He improved his opportunities and made good. The pastor added that he enjoyed life more than the boy who thought only of self.

The third example was the boy who was not afraid to look to others for good wholesome advice and follow it.

His talk was an enlargement on the text "For the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous, but the way of the ungodly shall perish."

The seniors, for the first time this season, appeared in cap and gown.

Participating in the services besides Rev. Sobel were Rev. G. A. Herbert, who gave the invocation; Rev. Basil S. Dickinson, read the scripture; Rev. Herbert Wilson, offered prayer and Rev. John Safran pronounced the benediction. The Junior Glee club sang a number of hymn selections and Miss Shirley Anderson sang "My Task," following the sermon.

A capacity crowd attended the services.

DENTAL MEET
AT GOLF CLUBSpecialists Will Attend
Gathering Thursday

In order that no symptom of lip, cheek, tongue or mouth cancer will escape detection, the Michigan State Dental Society and the Michigan Department of Health this year are stressing oral cancer in their program of continuing education for dentists in the state.

Ten per cent of cancer in men and two per cent of cancer in women occurs in the oral cavity. While it is not the responsibility of the dentist to treat cancer, it is his duty to detect any signs or symptoms of oral cancer and refer his patient to a qualified specialist for treatment, the sponsors contend.

Some of the country's foremost authorities in fields of dentistry, oral tumors and x-ray of the mouth are among the speakers scheduled for 15 area dental society meetings during May and June.

Among the series of day-long educational sessions scheduled is one for dentists of Delta, Schoolcraft, Menominee, Dickinson and Iron counties to be held here Thursday. Sessions will be held at the Golf Club both afternoon and evening.

Three clinicians or specialists will speak at the local meeting. Dr. George Christiansen, Detroit, president of the Michigan State Dental society will talk on "Oral Lesions." Dr. Maury Massier, Chicago director of the child research clinic at the College of Dentistry, University of Illinois, will use "Oral Infections" as his topic. Dr. LeRoy Ennis, Philadelphia, professor of Roentgenology, School of Dentistry, University of Pennsylvania, will speak on "Interpretation of X-rays."

Christian Scientists Hold Annual Meeting In Boston

Boston, Mass. — Breaking through the crust of ancient beliefs in material power, the post-war world is reaching out in an unprecedented effort for something better upon which to found a union of nations, The Christian Science Board of Directors declared.

Addressing several thousand Christian Scientists attending the annual meeting of The Mother Church, Scientists, in Boston, Massachusetts, the Directors viewed with satisfaction the worldwide stir in human consciousness to discard the material for the spiritual.

Physicians, they said, are giving more importance to thought in relation to disease. Natural scientists, they added, are gaining in their recognition of the insubstantiality of matter.

Religious leaders everywhere, they pointed out, have developed a widespread sense of the need and reasonableness of greater and more direct evidences of spiritual power.

In various other directions, the Directors continued, there is a strong urge to look beyond mere human means for the establishment of stable government.

The Directors' statement and the election of Miss Emma C. Shipman to the Presidency of The Mother Church for the ensuing year sparked an annual meeting filled with reports of marked progress in the Christian Science movement throughout the globe.

A report by the trustees of The Christian Science Publishing Society disclosed new high circulation peaks for most of its periodicals, and the best postwar circulation records for all of them in the fiscal year just ended.

The growing worldwide recognition of the news and editorial quality of the Christian Science Monitor was a source of keen satisfaction to the Trustees. Governments, private industries, educational and private foundations, they said, have sought the counsel and assistance of the Editor and other staff members of the Monitor.

More than 1,500,000 incoming letters were handled in the last year by the Publishing House, it was reported. More than 75,000,000 copies of various publications were said to have been mailed out to various parts of the world.

The Committee on Publication deplored the heavy volume of radio publicity given over to topics of disease, on the argument that this "publicity is one of the most prolific sources of disease."

Peer campaigns "which are repeatedly staged by one influence after another," the Committee commented, "require the constant vigilance of all radio listeners."

On the constructive side of radio broadcasting, The Mother Church was said to have contributed transcribed religious programs heard by a conservatively estimated 10,000,000 people every week. These programs are used by approximately 450 radio stations.

Other reports by the Clerk of The Mother Church, the Treasurer, The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, and the Trustees of Charitable Institutions covered a wide range of activities in the movement, all of which attested to a general postwar resurgence in religion.

Food, clothing, and literature supplies have flowed steadily from The Mother Church to needy Christian Scientists in Europe, the Clerk's report disclosed.

Large quantities of food have been sent to churches and societies in Japan, Hungary, Austria, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Finland, France, Great Britain, Greece, the Netherlands, and Poland, he stated. Similar shipments of clothing have gone to Great Britain, Germany, Norway, the Netherlands, and elsewhere.

Efforts are increasing, the Clerk added, to enable displaced persons in Europe to obtain new homes for themselves in other countries, including the United States, Canada, and England.

MISS EMMA C. SHIPMAN

ENSIGN

Shower Party

Ensign, Mich.—Mrs. Gilbert Pomeroy was guest of honor at a pink and blue shower held Wednesday afternoon at the Ogontz Grange hall. She received many lovely gifts. Pot luck lunch was served, with Mrs. Edward Lamberg and Mrs. Allen Erickson as hostesses.

Graduates

The following young people from Ensign were among those graduating from the Rapid River Rural Agricultural school last week: Anna Mae Anderson, Gerald Lewis, Martin Larson, Marcelle Lundquist, Bertil Gustafson, Herbert Lundin, Ronald Sundberg, Phyllis Coleman, Inez Strand and Viola Norlander. Miss Norlander delivered the salutatory address, while Miss Strand was valedictorian.

Persons

Weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Johnson were, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson and daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. Gust Johnson of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Morin will leave Saturday for their home in Erie after spending the past few weeks here at "The Four Winds." During the past week they have had as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Humms.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kaiser and son, Fred, returned Tuesday evening from Muskegon and Elk Rapids where they spent Memorial Day weekend.
